A Day in my Life with Parietal Lobe Damage

“I would no longer be able to drive because I could turn in the wrong direction and have a wreck (trouble distinguishing from right and left).”

1 forgot to press the button and proceeded to ride the elevator for ten minutes until I put my phone down and realize what happened (inability to attend to more than one object at a time).

My poem homework is due, but I was unable to figure out what to write to finish the homework (Inability to locate the words for writing).

My professor tells me to sit down and begin taking notes. However, I cannot read the notes on the board to write them down (problems with reading).
